GREETINGS!

from

SENATOR WYNONA M. LIPMAN

Welcome to our fifteenth Annual Breakfast and Awards Ceremony. As always, it is a pleasure to have you with us -- new friends and old. Without the support of good and dedicated people, like yourselves, fighting for the issues that concern us would be an impossible task. With your support, success becomes a possible dream.

I have the distinct honor of having served the people of New Jersey as a state senator for the past twenty-two years. Unfortunately, for the majority of those years, I have been the only female representative in the Senate. We have a long, long way to go in making the legislature a truly representative body.

As most of you know, I have always felt a strong obligation to give voice to the concerns of women and children -- those who are not generally heard in the halls of the Statehouse. I have focused my energies on the issues of domestic violence, sexual assault, child support, and welfare reform. I have tried to address problems in the funding and delivery of health and social services, most recently as they relate to the devastating HIV/AIDS crisis. I have worked to open doors for minority and women-owned businesses. And I have learned that, though we must continue to concentrate on creating opportunities, it is essential that we do so in ways that promote dignity and self respect.

Today, we acknowledge four brights lights from our own community -- sources of pride for all. We are especially honored by the presence of a respected and dignified national leader who provides for each of us an example of the best the country has to offer. Please enjoy the Awards Ceremony and the company of our distinguished guest, the United States Secretary of Energy, Hazel Rollins O'Leary.

HAZEL R. O'LEARY

Hazel R. O'Leary, the seventh Secretary of Energy, assumed her duties in January 1993. She oversees an agency of approximately 19,000 federal employees and 126,000 contract employees with an FY95 budget of $17.5 billion.

The Secretary's national security responsibilities include: ensuring the safety, reliability and credibility of the nation's nuclear deterrent; guarding against the proliferation of nuclear weapons and weapons-usable materials; and developing technological options to support U.S. requirements to monitor a future Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty.

Secretary O'Leary directs clean up of the nation's nuclear weapons plants -- one of the largest environmental programs in the world. She also oversees the science, technology and defense missions of 27 national laboratories. The Secretary is responsible for developing and deploying diverse clean energy resources and energy efficiency technologies to secure a globally competitive, reliable, sustainable energy future for the U.S.

At the direction of President Bill Clinton, Secretary O'Leary has led several major international trade missions. Accompanied by senior American business executives representing the energy sector, she has traveled to India (July 1994 and February 1995), Pakistan (September 1994) and China (February 1995) to promote U.S. energy trade missions that have helped launch an era of international partnerships in sustainable energy development resulting in over $14 billion in U.S. dollars in commercial agreements.

Secretary O'Leary is a vigorous leader in several of the Clinton Administration's major international policy initiatives. She co-chairs the Energy Policy Committee of the Gore-Chernomyrdin Commission for Science, Energy and Technical Cooperation. She leads efforts encouraging investments in Russia's energy sector as well as focusing on nuclear safety and non-proliferation issues in former Soviet Bloc countries.

In May 1995, she chaired the annual Ministerial meeting of the International Energy Agency in Paris. O'Leary was the first U.S. Energy Secretary to chair the meeting since 1980. She headed the U.S. delegations to the annual meetings of the International Atomic Energy Agency in 1993 and 1994.

Mrs. O'Leary brings a 20 year background in energy policy to her position as Secretary of Energy. She served as president of the natural gas subsidiary for Northern States Power (NSP), a $2 billion diversified utility holding company headquartered in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

She was also an executive vice president at NSP, overseeing the general counsel and vice presidents for human resources, public and governmental affairs and the environment. O'Leary served on the board of directors of the wholly-owned NSP subsidiary, N-R-G Energy Inc., an independent power producer, where she led development of an international strategic plan to deploy state-of-the-art energy production facilities worldwide.

Prior to joining NSP, Mrs. O'Leary was vice president and general counsel for O'Leary Associates, an international energy and economic consulting firm which specialized in energy economics, strategic planning and project development.

As a partner at the Washington, D.C. based international accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand, Secretary O'Leary designed corporate strategy to expand the firm's energy practice. She served on the board of directors of AES Corporation, a major international power producer.

In the public sector, Secretary O'Leary served as a Presidential appointee at the U.S. Department of Energy during the Carter Administration, and in the Federal Energy Administration's conservation and environment programs.

Secretary O'Leary graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Fisk University in Tennessee and received a law degree from Rutgers University Law School.

Hon. Donald M. Payne
United States Congressman
10th District, New Jersey

Donald M. Payne was elected to serve as the representative of the 10th Congressional District of New Jersey in 1988. He was re-elected in 1990, 1992 and 1994 with a wide margin of the vote. Congressman Payne is a member of the Economic and Educational Opportunities Committee and the International Relations Committee.

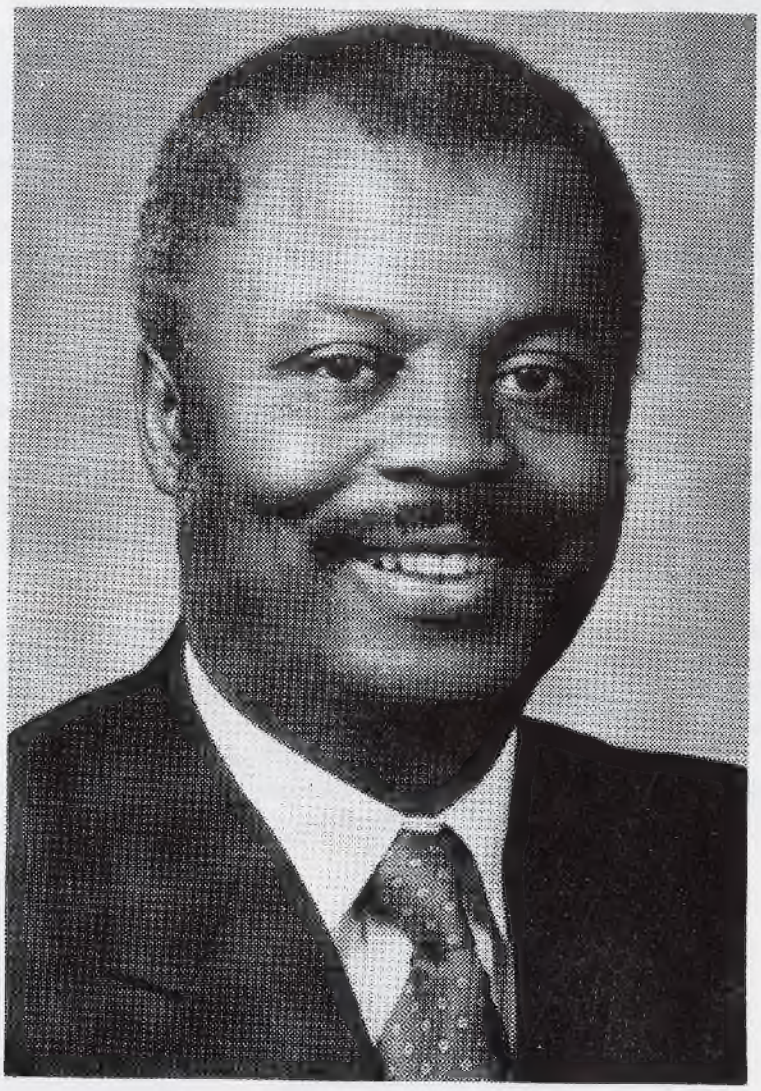

Congressman Payne has played an active role in both domestic and foreign policy matters. During his first session in Congress his first legislative resolution to promote literacy was unanimously approved by his colleagues and was signed into law by the President.

In response to an alarming increase in AIDS cases, Rep. Payne convened congressional hearings in New Jersey on Aids prevention, education, and treatment. He was instrumental in securing additional funds in the federal budget to address the AIDS crisis. Legislation he introduced to improve the Abandoned Infants Assistance Act to help "boarder babies" was approved by Congress and signed into law by the President. He also worked actively for the passage of the Family & Medical Leave Act, and the reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Before being elected to serve as New Jersey's first African-American Congressman, he served as a member of the Newark Municipal Council from 1982 to 1989. In 1972, Congressman Payne was elected to the Essex County Board of Chosen Freeholders, and served until 1978. In 1977, he served as the Boards's director. A true community leader, he has worked with young people as a teacher from 1957 to 1964, and with various youth oriented activities throughout his adult life.

Congressman Payne currently serves on the boards of directors of the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation, the Congressional Award Foundation, and the National Endowment for Democracy. He also serves on the Advisory Council of the U.S. Committee for UNICEF. He has served on the Substantive Issues Committee of the United Nations Association of the USA and the Small Business Advisory Council.

Congressman Payne serves as chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus. He is also a member of the House Democratic Leadership Advisory Group.

ROSALIND THIGPEN-RODD

Ms. Thigpen-Rodd is a native of St. Louis, Missouri. She completed her undergraduate and graduate education at Washington University, where she received a Masters Degree in Health Administration in 1978 from the Washington University School of Medicine. She is the founder of the Omega Epsilon Chapter of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc., the first Black Greek letter organization to be recognized by the University.

She joined the New Jersey Department of Health over eighteen years ago, and has gained professional experience and expertise in the area of health care services planning and financing, and public health administration. From 1984-1988 she served as an Executive Assistant in the Office of Commissioner, where among her accomplishments she organized the states first International Conference on AIDS. IN 1988, she joined the Division of Epidemiology & Disease Control. In addition to her overall Division responsibilities, she served as Executive Staff to the Department of Health's Task Force on Minority Health, and to the Commissioner's first statewide, comprehensive Health Profile on Black and Minority Populations in New Jersey.

In September 1990, Ms. Thigpen-Rodd was appointed to the first Executive Director of the New Jersey State Office of Minority Health. Her accomplishments include 1) the development of a statewide comprehensive Final Report on Minority Health in conjunction with the Commissioner's Advisory Committee on Minority Health, 2) the design and implementation of a statewide minority health-health promotion disease prevention grant program, 3) the designation and observation of September as Minority Health Month in the State of New Jersey, a statewide health education and outreach campaign targeting populations of color, 4) building and facilitating a community-based health education and outreach network of over 3000 health care providers, minority health advocate and coalitions.

She has been a guest lecturer at Rutgers University, Trenton State College and several other state and community colleges throughout New Jersey. In 1994 she served as Co-Chairwoman for the New Jersey Public Health Association's (NJPHA) Annual Symposium. Ms. Thigpen-Rodd has been Congress and the Northern New Jersey Black Nurses Association for her dedication and leadership in servicing communities of color.

Besides being a full time professional, she is a wife and mother of two sons. She remains thankful to God who is first in her life, and to her family for their constant love and support.

HONOREE

Casto Maldonado
President & CEO
FOCUS Hispanic Center for Community Development, Inc.

Casto Maldonado re-joined FOCUS as a Consultant in October 1993. On February 1, 1994 the Board of Trustees hired him as Executive Director. Previously he had served as FOCUS Executive Director in 1975 and as a Board member from 1990-1992.

Earlier, he spent 17 years with The Public Affairs Department of the Prudential Insurance Company in Newark, NJ, as a Community Relations Consultant, where his major responsibilities were to strengthen relations with New Jersey's Hispanic Community.

His work at the Prudential was not limited to Hispanic issues. He worked with organizations throughout the non-profit spectrum, coordinated the company's in-kind contributions program, headed Prudential's volunteerism program, was involved in the design and creation of the Newark Collaboration Group and Prudential's Minority Purchasing Program. He represented the company at a number of major conventions and conferences.

Further, as the Prudential Foundation's Program Officer for the Urban and Community Development, he reviewed funding proposals and made recommendations for all major grants in that area. He was also responsible for small grants, managing ans annual budget of over $2 million.

His thirty years of experience have included the following positions and highlights of his career:

Founded the Hispanic Outlook in Higher Education, the first and only monthly publication addressing the concerns of Hispanics in higher education throughout the nation.

Formed the first Hispanic Advisory Council for former Gov. Thomas Kean, who named him its chairman. His report was distributed to members of the Cabinet and the Legislature.

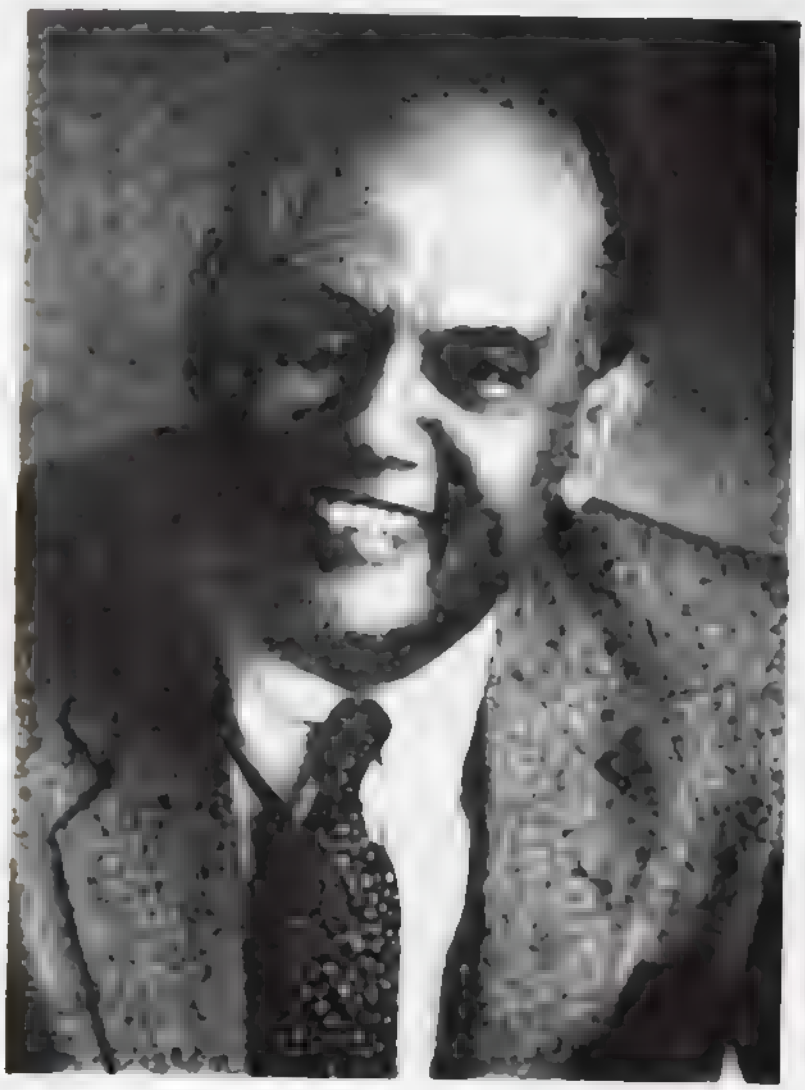

Organized two statewide conferences to explore business and economic development opportunities for Hispanic entrepreneurs and increase participation in the political process.

One of the founders, Deputy Director and later Chairman of the Board of Puerto Rican Congress of New Jersey.

Educator, Essex County College and Inter American University.

Casto Maldonado, hold a Bachelor's degree in Psychology from Inter American University and a Master's degree in Law and Social Justice from its School of Law. He later received certificates from various colleges and universities on the mainland.

Casto Maldonado has received numerous awards and recognition for his leadership from a variety of educational, professional and civic organizations.

PHILIP S. THOMAS
Vice President of Arts Education
New Jersey Performing Arts Center

Philip S. Thomas is a native of Accommac, Virginia and attended grammar school and high school in Paterson, New Jersey. He is a graduate of Montclair State University where he received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Speech and Theater in 1976.

In 1992, Philip S. Thomas was appointed Director of Arts Education at the New Jersey Performing Arts Center (NJPAC) which is currently under construction in Newark, New Jersey and scheduled to be completed for the 1997 performance season. In June 1995, Mr. Thomas was elevated to the position of Vice President of Arts Education. Mr. Thomas is responsible for developing a comprehensive arts education program at NJPAC to serve New Jersey children, families and educators.

Mr. Thomas was a co-founder of the carter G. Woodson Foundation and served as its president and artistic director from 1985 until 1992.

Philip is a well know and active member of the New Jersey arts community having served as Founder and Executive Director of the Greater Paterson arts Council, Arts Development Coordinator for the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, Director of Marketing for Newark Symphony Hall, and Grants Analyst for the Newark Public Schools.

Mr. Thomas is a Board Member of the Carter G. Woodson Foundation, the New Jersey Black Issues Convention, and is on the Advisory Board for One New Jersey, a program of New Jersey Futures, and participates in the United Way Celebrity Read Program.

Philip S. Thomas is a current recipient of a fellowship from the National Endowment for the arts, the WCBS Fulfilling the Dream award, and the NALRO Distinguished Artist Award.

Philip is married to Greta Allen Thomas and is a resident of Newark, New Jersey.

Mr. Thomas states that, "The New Jersey performing Arts Center has great opportunity to enrich the quality of life for New Jersey's youngest citizens. The most meaningful contribution I can make is to utilize my education and experience to develop a program that stimulates creative expression, celebrates the rich cultural diversity of the arts, excites the imagination, and enhances the joy of learning for all of New Jersey's children. This is an exciting challenge that I accept with great enthusiasm."

LYDIA DAVIS BARRETT
PRESIDENT & CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICE
URBAN LEAGUE OF ESSEX COUNTY

Lydia Davis Barrett was appointed President and CEO of The Urban League of Essex County where she has spent the last three years restoring that agency's fiscal stability, programs and public presence. Mrs. Barrett began her 28 years as a Human Services professional a Case Manager for Essex County Welfare in 1967. Since then she has been a social worker with the New Jersey Department of Youth and Family Services; director of the Montclair Division of Public Welfare, director of TEEN PROGRESS, a New Jersey welfare to work program for teen parents; and a program officer for the Victoria Foundation, and The First Occupational Center of New Jersey.

As a volunteer, Lydia recently served for three years as chairperson of the Montclair Civil Rights Commission from 1990 -1993, restoring the Commission after 6 years of inactivity.

Lydia Davis Barrett and her former husband David, are the proud patents of sons, Tehuti, age 25 and Issa, age 23. Tehuti works as a Civil Engineer for the Township of Montclair, and Issa works as a Special Projects Coordinator for the City of Chicago's Housing Department.

NJPAC

The Master Plan for the NJPAC complex covers a twelve acre site situated between Military Park and the Passaic River in the heart of Newark's central business district

The Master plan evolved after considerable evaluation of several alternative schemes which includes three cultural facilities. A 2700 seat Multi- purpose Hall and a 500 seat Studio Theater will be housed in a single building. Immediately adjacent to the Multi-purpose Hall and Studio Theater, a new public plaza, Theater Square will serve the dual purpose of providing a new civic park and an attractive, usable landscaped forecourt for the theater complex.

The second cultural building, is a 2400 seat Concert Hall. It will be situated to the east of the new Mulberry Street adjacent to McCarter Highway. Across Center Street, one million square feet of commercial and retail development will be constructed and will form a continuous link with businesses from Broad Street to the Waterfront

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS:

"What another would have done as well as you, do not do it. What another would have said as well as you, do not say it; written as well, do not write it. Be faithful to that which exists nowhere but in yourself- and thus make yourself indispensable."

----Andre Paul Guillaume Gide

"Based on your great accomplishments, I would say the secret is out. You are quite indispensable. Keep up the good work!"

Appreciates and Recognizes

Senator Wynona Lipman's

Efforts To Promote Culture In New Jersey

The Krueger-Scott Mansion and its surrounding site is presently being restored to become a premier African-American facility for the study and interpretation of the visual and performing arts and for the research and preservation of Newark's African-American history.

While the Mansion is being restored, the Center is sponsoring public programs throughout the city.
